THE ADJUTANT GENERAL [illegible]

DURANGO, Col., July [illegible].—Adjutant General Taylor in an interview with the commandant at Fort Lewis had determined to send out one or two troops of cavalry with [illegible] rations to scour the mountains between Mancos and the Colorado river to intercept any roving bands of Indians and protect the settlements. Taylor had an interview to-night with Agent Stollsteimer, whom he represents as saying that the Indian chiefs in finding [illegible] to-day [illegible] they would not molest settlers further, but if they had further trouble with cowboys they would seek [illegible] them, and not the settlers.

A MEXICAN [illegible]

[illegible] In the battle with Yaqui Indians previous to the one in which General Garcia was killed, the heavy loss of Mexicans was attributed to treachery [illegible] General Garcia commanded the left wing, Topete the center and Carbo the right. The latter had arranged for a simultaneous attack on the Indians. At the time agreed upon General Topete advanced, but Carbo ordered [illegible] division around to join his command and hold them back. The consequence was that Topete's division was almost annihilated. When Topete came back to camp he attempted to kill Carbo, and would undoubtedly have done so had not some of Carbo's soldiers [illegible] them as [illegible] officer sent Topete to Mazatlan, from which [illegible] the latter [illegible] to [illegible] received [illegible] Mazatlan [illegible]

OHIO PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, July [illegible].—The state prohibition convention to-day nominated Dr. A. B. Leonard for governor.

The ticket was completed as follows: Lieutenant governor, Prof. W. [illegible] of [illegible] county; supreme judge, Gideon Stewart of Huron county; treasurer, John H. Dunn of Stark county; attorney general, A. J. Clemmer of Clinton county; board of public works, J. S. Neville of Hardin county.

The platform declares for a prohibition amendment and opposes license tax or regulation of the liquor traffic. It says friends of prohibition should not be controlled by either of the old parties, because both have shown themselves subservient to the liquor interest. It declares that the rum power must be vanquished by a new party devoted to this purpose. It describes two wings of the great liquor party, one as advocating license, and the other taxation and regulation of the liquor traffic, leaving no loyal citizen any alternative except to join the prohibition party. It favors moral suasion as a means of reform, and full protection of the ballot. A resolution of sympathy with Grant was adopted.

RAIN STORM IN COLORADO.

DENVER, July [illegible].—A heavy rain storm near the forks of the creek on the Colorado Central road last night caused a rapid and heavy rise in Clear creek, resulting in considerable damage to the road, carrying away two small wooden bridges and washing away the roadbed in several places. Both bridges have been [illegible] placed and trains were running to Georgetown this afternoon. The Black Hawk branch of the same road also suffered considerably. Reports of two [illegible] drowned are unconfirmed.

A private message received to-night from Black Hawk says the damage done by last night's storm in that vicinity is greater than first supposed. The public smelting works, a mile below town, were greatly damaged, and McFarlane's foundry was nearly washed away. At one time water was three feet deep in the streets. Trains on this road have not been running for two or three days. No loss of life now reported.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

MOUNT MCGREGOR, N. Y., July 2.—Notwithstanding the approach [illegible] General Grant would pass a restless night, he rested and slept fully seven hours. Dr. Douglas this morning reported that while the general awoke first [illegible] take food or to have his throat dressed, he did so with a [illegible] and [illegible] seemed to [illegible] sleep [illegible] at intervals [illegible] again readily [illegible] despite the [illegible] The morning is bright and clear, though chilly, after the past four days of [illegible] weather.

At 11 o'clock General Grant expressed himself as feeling better able to work than at any time since he came here. His writing materials were brought and he [illegible] in his room, the day being too chilly for the patient to go outdoors.

THE OHIO IRON WORKERS STRIKE.

CLEVELAND, June [illegible].—All departments in the Cleveland rolling mills are idle now, except the plate mill, employes of which are not affected by the strike. This morning the wire mill men held a meeting and decided to quit work. They number [illegible] 800 strong, largely Bohemians and Poles. The men in the rail mills and blacksmith shops also refused to go out, and joined the other idlers. At noon over 1500 men were out. The excitement of the day began at six o'clock this morning, when a large body of men forced [illegible] the gates leading to the mills. The engineer of the brick rod mill was forced to bank his fires and all employes induced to quit. The engineers of the blooming and rail mills refused to [illegible] the machinery [illegible] and all the men in these mills joined the strikers. No violence was threatened [illegible].

A REMARKABLE CURE.

NEW YORK, July [illegible].—(Special.)—A very strong [illegible] believed [illegible] has recently taken place here. A [illegible] employed in the [illegible] perfumery works of Mr. [illegible] and Pearl street took hold of a red-hot [illegible] his right hand and was terribly burned. He suffered excruciating torture. [illegible] applied the bandages [illegible] and in an hour the pain was almost gone. In [illegible] the hand was well and [illegible] remained. The [illegible] has been effected solely by the use of [illegible].

A MILITIAMAN [illegible] IN A BLANKET.

PHILADELPHIA, July [illegible].—In a national military encampment here last night some of the soldiers were enjoying themselves with the sport of tossing in a blanket. A [illegible] and took part in the sport and was tossed in her turn in a rough and tumble fashion. This morning she came to the camp with a constable, and after going about a while, picked Captain Curtis of the Indianapolis artillery as one of the men who assisted to toss her. It was evidently a case of mistaken identity, as Captain Curtis drew his sword and refused to be arrested. Trouble seemed imminent for a time, but it finally blew over and Captain Curtis submitted to arrest, and was held for assault with intent to kill. The affair has created a sensation.

THE CHICAGO STREET RAILWAY STRIKE.

CHICAGO, July 3, 2:30 A. M.—At this hour the street railway strike is unbroken. The city, except in the worst locality, is practically unguarded. Nearly the entire police force has been ordered to report to various stations and will be held there until daylight. The programme of the department is to march the force in a body at 4 o'clock this morning to the car barns of the West division street railway, and to start a line of cars down the track, each loaded with policemen, who will be prepared to resist an attack. A [illegible] CRIME.

[illegible], July [illegible].—A special to the Times-Union from [illegible] Florida says that a horrible murder and [illegible] occurred [illegible] near that place. The only particulars obtainable are that at about [illegible] M dense smoke was seen from [illegible] in the direction of [illegible] dwelling. A party of citizens went [illegible] and found that the house was nearly burned. [illegible] girl 10 years old was lying near with her skull [illegible] able to speak a little. [illegible] BOOKKEEPING.

WASHINGTON, July [illegible].—William Calhoun, an accountant of New York, who was selected by Secretary Whitney to investigate the system of keeping books in the navy department, has made a preliminary report and has recommended an entire change of system. He favors the adoption of the system used in the English navy department. Mr. Calhoun says the investigation now in progress will not be completed for some months. The preliminary report is quite long. He says that under the present system each navy department each bureau keeps its own set of books, that there is no uniform system among the bureaus, some being kept in double and some in single entry, and that none of them warrant any great praise. He sums it up in these words: [illegible] it is defective [illegible]

A Vigorous Report Against the Mexican Central.

A PLEASANT EVENT IN LONDON.

The King of Spain Makes a Secret Visit to a Cholera Infected District—The New Lord Chancellor of Ireland Takes the Oath.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), July 2.—The railway commissioner's report sets forth that the Central railroad plainly and illegally forfeited its concession by making discriminating rates with roads in the United States to bring into the country goods at extraordinary low rates, which discrimination was expressly forbidden by its contract. The report alleges that the Central frequently brought goods to this city destined for points off the road, charging extra duty for returning them to their original destination. This is explained on the ground that through freight on goods from Paso Del Norte to this city is much less. The government commissioner states that the railroad company violated articles 47 and 48 of its concession because according to these articles the road was obliged previously to obtain the approval of the secretary of public works on any tariffs it may make or any alterations of tariff it may desire to introduce. The report further sets forth that the company violated article 45 of the same contract to the effect that the tariff must be made on the basis of the most perfect equality, allowing no one special advantages in freight rates. The commissioner states that the company has most flagrantly violated these stipulations. The commissioner cites charges on cotton [illegible], which pays from Jiminez to this city, 600 miles, freight charges of $61.05, while American cotton can be brought from New York to this city [illegible] miles for a little more than $40 per ton. The commissioner says this is most harmful to the welfare of the country and immediate correction of the abuses is necessary. He recommends that the company be compelled to render the government an exact statement of all freight upon which unauthorized charges have been made. For each of such violations he recommends the imposition of a fine. In case of refusal of the company to render a report or if there be a suspicion that the report is not correct he recommends that the secretary of public works investigate on his own account.

A communication from the department of public works followed, thanking the commissioner for his labors, and setting forth the necessary steps to be taken [illegible] investigating all violations and imposing a fine.

NO FAVORS FOR THE MEXICAN CENTRAL.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), July 1.—The government has officially notified the Mexican Central railway that it must comply strictly with the terms of its concessions and the provisions of the general railway regulations, forbidding inequalities in freight rates, and that special through rates from the United States, cutting under the Mexican freight tariff, cannot be permitted. The government also warns the railroad that it shall investigate cases of alleged freight cutting, and in [illegible] that the legally fixed penalty will be forced. It is generally understood here that Manager Robinson of the Mexican Central road has resigned, and that Mr. Albion G. Bradstreet, formerly chief engineer of the Tehuantepec railroad, is named for the place. He is favorably known here and has had legal training, and an extensive acquaintance with the government.

ENGLAND.

A VERY PLEASANT AFFAIR.

LONDON, July 2.—The inaugural dinner of the Imperial and American club given this evening, was a grand success. The object of the new club is to provide a center in London where members of the principal clubs of the United States can meet persons of social standing in England, India and the British colonies. General Charles P. Norton, secretary of the American exposition, and Albert Van Wagner of the Alabama claims commission, made speeches, in which they pointed out the many benefits derived from properly constituted clubs, and said that England and America united could defy the world. Colonel Kelly presided. The guests included the duke of Manchester, Lord Napier, Sir Peter Lumsden, Mr. Whiteley, and other Americans and colonial agents.

Letters of regret were read from the lord mayor, the Duke of Argyle and others.

The chairman proposed the health of President Cleveland, and Van Wagner responded in a humorous speech, in which he described the club as only a practical plan to induce the British lion and the innocent American to lie down together.

General Norton proposed the toast "Imperial and American Club," coupling with the toast the name of the Duke of Manchester. He said he thought the club carried all the elements that assured success and expressed a wish for the welfare of the American exhibition.

The duke of Manchester, responding, regretted that the exhibition could not have been held in conjunction with the Indian and colonial exhibition, which would have been of inestimable advantage.

Numerous toasts followed and the greatest cordiality prevailed.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1885.

NOT "PLAYED OUT."

With extreme distress to itself a democratic organ of the epicene order has read in THE OREGONIAN a statement that, because of the grossly and perversely wrong career of the democratic party during a quarter of a century no intelligent, honest but fair-minded republican would join that party even if Mr. Cleveland should give the country an absolutely faultless administration. The protesting journal, though it thinks this position a very erroneous one, admits that the democratic party during a long period pursued a very wrongful course; that it did, or attempted to do, many things which it cannot now defend, and which have been condemned utterly by the course of events; but it insists, nevertheless, that it is not fair to remember these things, or to hold the party responsible for them.

This is not a perfect world; but even in this world there can be no inversion of the moral order. A man's conduct makes his life; a political party is necessarily judged upon its history. It is no more possible for a party which for a long period pursued a course that impartial history justly terms infamous, and which even itself dares not now attempt to defend, to get clear of judgment upon its character and career than for an individual who has followed a criminal life to take on another character in the estimation of his fellow men merely by professing to do so. The democratic party is not going to get rid of that quarter of a century of history that it has made. But it is said that because the democratic party won last November, therefore this "old history is played out," and that it won because it was "believed to represent the best and most hopeful elements of our present political life." The two assertions are alike untenable. It won by the vote of a confederacy of sixteen states, kept solid by the same proscription and violence that united them against the government and the Union when they were outvoted in a former election, aided by the personal piques of a handful of men in the north, who went over to the democratic party because their attempted dictation in the matter of nominating the republican candidate was disregarded. The fruit of this combination was the success of the democratic party by a majority smaller than that given the republican candidate in a county of Oregon. Nothing could be further from just judgment than the assertion that such a result proves that "the historic record is played out," and that the country turned to the democratic party as the embodiment of what is "best and purest and most hopeful in political life." Men didn't gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles two thousand years ago, nor do they yet; and the person, who, knowing and admitting that the democratic party during so long a period pursued a course that was utterly indefensible, exhibiting therein an unworthiness without parallel in the history of parties, yet pretends that the same party, by some sudden and miraculous transformation, now embodies what is best and most hopeful in public life, would ask men to accept a singular, irrational, perverse and even immoral rule of judgment and of action.

To justify the change from the republican to the democratic party it would be necessary not only to show that since the republican party came into being its course in public affairs has been less worthy than that of the democratic party, but also that the latter has higher capacity for administering the government. But who will pretend that the career of the democratic party has been as judicious, honorable and worthy as that of the republican party? Who dares to appear before the American people with the declaration that its achievements of the republican party during its twenty-four years of power ought to be undone? This is the crucial test. Yet every one of the efforts of the republican party that led up to those achievements was opposed by the democratic party with all the means it could command. When it is apologetically said that democrats do not now defend the acts of their party, it simply means that they cannot and dare not and the reason why no intelligent, fair-minded and honest republican will now go to the democratic party is because such republican is not ashamed of the great history of his own party, would not condemn its achievements nor stultify nor dishonor himself. Equally without justification does he find the pretense that it is necessary to turn to the democratic party to get a better administration of the government at the present time. A democratic administration is doing nothing at all that republican administrations did not do as well or better. It is obliged to follow republican methods to avoid mistakes, and it departs from republican policy with utmost caution lest it bring upon itself the condemnation of the country. It dares not revert openly to the policies it insisted on in former years, and even pretends to be glad that the great questions that divided the parties so long were settled against it. It cannot do or attempt openly to do what it wants to do and what its instinct would lead it to do, but lets "I dare not" wait upon "I would." All that it has done so far has been merely to put into office, on false pretenses of divorcing the public service from partisanship, some tens of thousands of its own partisans,—making ex-rebels especially conspicuous and numerous in the public service, in recognition of obligations to the section of the party that controls sixteen states by the same methods that kept the republican party out of those states in 1860, and carried most of them into the rebellion in 1861.

In the great northern states, that constitute the might and glory of the country, the democratic vote fell nearly a million short of a majority, and though the electoral votes of four northern states went to the democratic candidates, there was in each one only an extremely narrow plurality. In no northern state had the democrats a majority of the votes, while in the northern states taken together there was an enormous republican majority over the vote cast for all other candidates combined. This republican majority was thrown against the history and character of the democratic party, and this same republican majority exists to-day. The democratic party won, not because it was understood to represent what was "best and most hopeful in political life," but through a peculiar juggle which, as it rested on the confederacy of the sixteen states of the south as its prime factor, with their 153 electoral votes counted in advance, enabled the democratic managers to make their whole effort in one, two or three northern states, where they were aided by various circumstances of a temporary kind which the republicans had not been wise enough to avert. The republican party is not nor ever was effectively strong except in those states through which the great national achievements of the last quarter of a century have been wrought out. It did not expect to carry any of the states of the confederacy; but its power in the national states is as strong to-day as at any former time, while the democratic party is not now more trusted than it has heretofore been. That democrat errs greatly who imagines that the historical record is "played out." It furnishes still, and will furnish for an indefinite period, the main inspiration by which millions of votes will be directed against the democratic party.

Messrs. Prager Bros. of the Farmers' and Mechanics' store of this city have run a displayed advertisement this week, occupying a page, through the DAILY, SUNDAY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN. The result is that they are selling goods at a rate that has had no parallel in the trade here. That advertisement in the several editions of THE OREGONIAN has been seen by more people than if it had been inserted in all the other papers, daily, weekly, Sunday, secular, religious and agricultural, published in Portland; and the advertisers are getting the benefit of it.

The cabinet officer who talks without allowing his name to be used, is quoted by the New York Herald as saying that the spoils system, if adhered to long in this country, would breed revolutions. He states from observation that "the hunger for office, while it is singularly limited in one way, comparatively few people being infected with it, is astonishingly vehement and furious." This is probably truthful and not overdrawn, and gives the strongest reason for the establishment of reforms which will prevent public office from being used as the reward of political services. The same person gives this testimony to President Cleveland's personal attitude and influence: "I can say to you that he has been the master of us all in this matter." This is important if true. Everyone has understood the president to be in favor of civil service reform, but there is a general opinion that the spoils system has mastered him. It is pleasant to be assured to the contrary, even upon the authority of an anonymous cabinet officer. But in that view of the case there will be a general curiosity to know how the Vilas circular broke loose.

SOME QUESTIONS OF COMMERCE.

Taking for its text a statement that a good deal of Oregon wheat is carried to San Francisco and shipped foreign from that port, and that this is due to the fact that charters to load in the Columbia river average about ten shillings higher than charters to load at San Francisco, the Astorian says:

> There exists no natural reason why Oregon wheat should be sent from here to England and the continent by way of San Francisco. Nothing causes such a pull-dog-pull-devil style of doing business but an effort on the part of Portland to control the wheat carrying trade of the Columbia basin. Dragging a vessel over shoals and bars 100 miles inland makes so much delay, extra risk and higher insurance that freights from the Columbia average ten shillings a ton higher than from San Francisco, and thus handicapped, Oregon wheat has, like Columbia river salmon, nothing but its superior quality to force the market for itself. Were it not superior it couldn't compete with ports where shipping points are more in conformity with the laws of commerce. Were wheat shipped in deep water vessels at Astoria, the freight would be less, and there would be no occasion to ship Oregon wheat to England via San Francisco.

The Astorian goes on to say that this disadvantage will continue till the wheat of the Columbia basin is loaded at Astoria in vessels that can carry full cargoes, and adds:

> There is no reason why wheat afloat at Astoria should not be worth just as much as wheat afloat at San Francisco. The Astorian asks its eastern Oregon and Washington contemporaries to continue their efforts to secure a free river. "It is essential to the development of our country. It is not a local question that concerns only Astoria or the lower Columbia. It is something as broad in its requirements, far reaching and illimitable in its extent as the country that is concerned in it, and whose future prosperity depends largely upon its successful prosecution."

It is quite plain from the above that Portland's position and action in relation to the wheat trade,—and also many of the conditions of the general subject,—are alike misunderstood. Vessels come up to Portland for cargoes because it actually costs less money to put wheat on shipboard in this way and get it to Astoria than to transport it to Astoria by smaller craft and put it on shipboard there. It is a mere question of economy, and men who charter vessels and ship wheat certainly would not go on throwing money away by bringing vessels up to Portland if they could save it by boating the wheat down to Astoria and loading the vessels there. Portland, controlling the wheat trade of the Columbia basin, would prefer to load vessels at Astoria rather than at her own wharves if she could make money by it. Again, there is a reason, and a conclusive one, why wheat afloat at Astoria should not be worth as much as wheat afloat at San Francisco. The difference per ton in value is precisely the difference per ton between the Portland and the Astoria charter rates, and the reason for this difference is found in the fact that San Francisco is one of the leading ports of the world. The price of tonnage is naturally and always less at a great tonnage market than at a side port, to which there is no inward carriage and where outward freights are limited and uncertain. Ships go to San Francisco from all parts of the world, expecting to find there return cargoes or engagements elsewhere. After discharging a cargo at San Francisco a vessel can much better afford to take direct from that port a cargo of wheat to Liverpool than to come to Astoria or to Portland for a similar cargo. In the former case she has but to take in her load and depart; but in the latter she must take in a ballast of rock, proceed to the north and unload her ballast before taking in her cargo. The difference between an engagement from San Francisco and an engagement from Astoria is the cost of taking in ballast, the cost of the passage up the coast, the bar charges at the Columbia river, the cost of dumping ballast at Astoria, and the value of the time which all these operations consume. There are exceptions in favor of Astoria or Portland, and against them, but the difference between charter rates here and at San Francisco is the average cost of all the operations named. If the difference were merely arbitrary it could hardly exist a single season, and certainly not through a long course of years, remaining during all that time practically uniform. If the difference were not a sound economic one, the Columbia river would be thronged with ships eager for the profit of our higher charter rates, and their competition would soon put the figures down. Imagine for a moment that the conditions were reversed: imagine the Columbia river to be the great tonnage market capable by means of its inward commerce to command the presence of ships, and imagine San Francisco a side port with little or no inward business and with only fifty or sixty outward cargoes each year. She then would have to pay a premium for ships just as we do now. No one with the slightest knowledge of the laws of commerce can doubt it.

THE OREGONIAN would be as glad as the Astorian possibly could be to see an open river. It approves of all efforts in this direction as enterprises of local development, and it believes that without local development the country cannot hope for advancement. Portland will not stand in the way of Columbia river improvement at the Cascades, The Dalles or elsewhere—on the contrary she will lend her influence and support to these schemes. But we must remind the public that the grain product of the inland empire in the mass can never come down the Columbia river by boat. The river does not go to the grain fields, and the railroads do. The wheat of the country must be loaded on cars before it reaches the river, and once loaded it will be cheaper to run it down on the rails than to make an extra and costly transfer. If the river were now free from obstructions, the bulk of the grain would come to Portland by rail. And then there is another point: Before the obstructions to the river can possibly be removed this country will have ceased to raise grain for export, and its products will be of a kind which must necessarily be shipped by rail. Still, a free river would perhaps help to keep rates down, and it would unquestionably be a great advantage to those districts adjacent to water. Portland may be counted on to lend a helping hand in promoting the work.

The following are the dimensions of the statue of liberty, as it will appear in New York harbor when on its pedestal:

Height of bottom of foundation above mean low water	[illegible]	[illegible]
Height of foundation	[illegible]	[illegible]
Height of pedestal	[illegible]	[illegible]
Height of top of torch above top of pedestal	[illegible]	[illegible]
Height of top of torch above mean low water	[illegible]	[illegible]

According to these figures the completed statue will be twenty-one feet higher than Trinity church spire and twenty-three feet higher than the towers of the Brooklyn bridge.

The credit of the state of New York is "gilt-edged." On the 25th ult. the state received bids for a loan of $1,000,000 at 2½ per cent. interest, and $21,300,000 was offered at par for the bonds. The legislature provided that the bonds should be offered at 3 per cent interest, but the comptroller thought 2½ per cent. was enough, and his judgment was sustained by the result. These bonds bear a lower rate of interest than any ever offered to the public in this country. The loan was to raise money for the purchase of the Niagara Falls park grounds.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

PROPOSED MOUNTAIN BOULEVARD.—It is one of the drawbacks of Portland, particularly in the summer season, that the city has not a first class drive. Of course there are a number of safe roads leading to nearly all the hills where good views can be obtained, but to take one round out of the city and return by another necessitates traversing some parts of a road that is neither comfortable nor attractive. Indeed, it is a general complaint from owners of equipages, from the $40 dog cart with a $25 cayuse, up to the millionaire's turnout with liveried coachman, that one can not pick out a continuous two hours' pleasure drive. But this state of affairs is not likely to last more than one year longer. At the suggestion of Capt. R. H. Lawson, a number of gentlemen including himself have contributed a sum sufficient to pay for surveying a road around Mt. Zion and Marquam's hills, and they propose to build it. There is now a good road from the head of Montgomery Street to the Mount Zion schoolhouse via Carter's hill, on a grade of four and one-half feet to the hundred. The plan is to build a grand circular drive around the two hills mentioned, nearly on a level, and sixty feet wide. It will connect with the city by the canyon road at the head the canyon, at the east end by the Slavin and Marquam hill roads, and near the center by the Carter hill road from the head of Montgomery street. This will give a drive of nearly ten miles, and it will always remain a pleasure drive, because, not leading directly between any two places, freight teams will keep off and confine themselves to shorter routes of travel. By following one side of the road or the other, pleasure seekers can keep in the shade all the time. There are numerous spots all along the line, and a hundred spots for picnics, as pretty as eye ever beheld. The road will be about 800 feet above the river level, and on any clear day the greater part of western Oregon and Washington territory can be seen. To the south the entire Willamette valley is in view, including the Three Sisters, Mount Jefferson and the Calapooia hills. To the north we can see as far as Mount Rainier, while almost at one's feet lie Portland and suburbs, Vancouver, Forest Grove, Hillsboro, and the lovely Columbia appear only a short way off. One measured mile almost straight and very nearly on a dead level, has been staked off, for the special purpose of speeding and training roadsters, and some work has already been done. The best part of the whole matter is that the road can be graded and macadamized with very little more than the road tax.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED.—About 7 o'clock last evening Maud, aged 7 years, daughter of J. H. Munk, residing just beyond the city limits of East Portland, on the Vancouver road, met with a deplorable accident. She, with an elder sister named Annie, and other children, were engaged in roasting potatoes at a bonfire they had kindled in the neighborhood, when her clothing caught fire and rapidly burned. Her sister and Mrs. Finn, a neighbor, who hurried to the scene, made unsuccessful attempts to strip her of her clothing, their hands being badly burned in the attempt, and they were compelled to witness her enveloped in a sheet of flame without being able to render any assistance. Before the fire had spent its fury it had consumed nearly all her clothing and scorched her body seriously from head to feet, her face and breast and small portions of her arms only escaping. The functions of the skin being thus destroyed to about four-fifths its extent, her recovery is beyond hope, and probably before this report sees the light she will have passed away. Drs. Rafferty and Flinn were hastily summoned, but could only afford temporary relief. She retained her consciousness, however, for many hours, and bore her suffering with much fortitude. The father was absent in Portland at the time of the accident, of which he did not hear for several hours afterwards while returning home. The child was a favorite in the neighborhood, and the grief of the family is shared by all acquaintances.

GLORIOUS SUCCESS OF "REFORM."—When "reformers" displace "offensive partisans" the results sometimes are peculiar. Now here is a man named Flood, we believe of southern Oregon. He was appointed a mail agent on the cars, displacing an agent who was doing his work well, and behaving himself as a "decent public servant" (the phrase of Grover Cleveland's) ought. Mr. Flood has been celebrating his triumph by boozing hilariously since he got the place. Yesterday he came in with his mail on the O. & C. as drunk as a reformer could well be, and his mail was in a condition that corresponded harmoniously with his own. He had it tumbled together in a way which indicated that his bibulous propensities had been concentrated on mixed drinks; he had carried large numbers of letters past their destination, which letters must go back to-day under the care of one of the remaining "offensive partisans," and his mail generally was in a disordered condition. Mr. Flood is not an "offensive partisan," though a blatant democrat, while the man whom he superseded is of course an "offensive partisan," though he doesn't talk politics, and quietly minds his own business. The virtues of Mr. Flood are those of the reformer, which, as he evidently understands them, are voting the democratic ticket, getting drunk, and whooping-'er-up with Lafayette Lane. Reform is getting some glorious triumphs over offensive partisanship these days.

MOUNT HOOD ILLUMINATION.—Unless some accident prevents, the red fire on the summit of Mount Hood will burn at 10 o'clock Saturday night, not 9:30 as announced in a contemporary. Persons living between East Portland and Mount Hood are requested to watch for the illumination, as it may be visible to them, and yet not seen in Portland. Hood River and The Dalles people may also be able to see it. Those who can see the illumination will confer a favor if they will state by letter all the particulars of brilliancy, extent and duration, to W. G. Steel at the postoffice. The ascending party expect to reach the summit about 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and if the sun is shining they will attempt to communicate by means of mirror flashes with some friends stationed on an eminence in this city. Whether they will be successful in making themselves understood, according to a code of signals which each party has is doubtful. Perhaps others living nearer Mt. Hood will be able to see the flashes. If so, they will please report the fact to Mr. Steel.

NOT SO.—The Pacific Christian Advocate says: "We observe that an OREGONIAN reporter, evidently interested in procuring an opinion against constitutional and legal prohibition as it exists in Iowa, obtained the signatures of ten of the Iowa press excursionists to a statement to the effect that the law is violated in many counties with perfect impunity, that drunkenness is rather increased than otherwise, and, in short, that the laws of Oregon are much more efficacious to prevent drunkenness than those of Iowa." The good brother is badly out of the way here. No OREGONIAN reporter had a hand in "procuring" or "obtaining" the signatures. The document was offered by the signers themselves, and the reporter didn't care and don't care a fig about it. Only he has a sort of natural and human interest in learning how the good brother of the Advocate came to know, or to profess to know, so much about it. Is such writing the fruit of inspiration or omniscience?

LIVELY WHARVES.—A reporter who visited Albina yesterday found four steamships lying along the docks. The Oregon was taking on wheat for San Francisco. The Ancon was getting ready for her trip to Alaska. At the bunkers the William [illegible] was discharging coal, having moved into the Idaho's berth, as she was in a hurry to discharge her cargo. The Idaho was discharging the remainder of her cargo of Nanaimo coal on the wharf. Several locomotives puffing and panting [illegible] which seemed an aimless manner [illegible] flying switches, with bells ringing and whistles blowing gave an appearance of life to the railroad company's yards. Along the wharves were seen many idle men sitting or laying in the shade, while at intervals along the bank of the river were [illegible] boys bathing. One of these little [illegible] were rolling naked in a [illegible] which looked not enough to roast them.

[illegible] AGAINST THE VESSEL.—The libel suit of J. C. Trullinger against the steamer Alliance was heard by Judge Deady in the U. S. district court yesterday upon a peremptory exception to the libel. It appeared from the libel that [illegible] contract to build this vessel bought of Trullinger a bill of lumber, which he did not pay for. Trullinger sued to hold the vessel, but [illegible] under the law of the state of Oregon. Judge Deady held that under the admiralty law of the United States a contract to build a vessel is not a maritime contract and could not be enforced in the admiralty, and for a stronger reason a man who furnished lumber for a contractor could not enforce a claim or lien against a vessel in admiralty. [illegible] R. Strong and C. W. Fulton appeared for the libellant and R. Stott for the vessel.

IN TOWN.—Mr. J. L. Saunders of Port Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y., is making an extended trip on the Pacific coast. Mr. Saunders has devoted the past eighteen years traveling, and has witnessed the rapid growth of all the cities east of the Rocky mountains in that time. In speaking of Portland, he exclaimed "It is [illegible]. So many grand, beautiful and substantial buildings [illegible] such a city gives the positive assurance of a strong, healthy and rapid growth. With its enterprising people, he says, it must advance and become one of the foremost [illegible] in our country." Mr. Saunders is glad to find Staten Island represented here [illegible] own firm of Thompson, Hart & Co. Mr. [illegible], a former resident of Staten Island, who [illegible] pleasant recollections of youthful [illegible] made his home in this far away northwest.

EXCITING ACCIDENT.—The team attached to the regular mail hack in waiting at the [illegible] station, Yamhill county, on Tuesday last, became [illegible] and, running a large [illegible] were [illegible] about a hundred feet beyond the [illegible] brought the team to a full stop, one horse [illegible] to pieces, and the hack was demolished. [illegible] The other horse was severely [illegible] back [illegible] Sassengers had one of a [illegible] and the driver was attending [illegible] after [illegible] having [illegible] to the [illegible] proach of the train. A [illegible] one of the same driver [illegible] two years ago, caused [illegible] death after lingering [illegible] Mrs. Grisham of [illegible], who was sitting in the hack when the horses [illegible]

[illegible] Neal Sweeny, a man of [illegible] was examined in Justice [illegible] court yesterday charged with assault [illegible] was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $[illegible]. [illegible] Wednesday evening, as [illegible] Lyons, steward of the Oregon, was walking on North Front street near [illegible] worth dock, Sweeny, who was standing behind a telegraph pole, stepped out and struck Lyons in the head with a large stone, the blow felling him to the earth. Sweeny then struck Lyons on the face several times with the stone. The attack was without any sort of provocation, the men being utter strangers. An effort to induce Sweeny to [illegible] his motive for the crime was met by a rambling statement which showed that he was insane, or feigning insanity very well.

HIS SUIT GOT HIM INDICTED.—Emanuel Pichot, the miscreant who brought suit in the circuit court a few days since against Pierre Sinozand to recover $[illegible] alleged to have been advanced to bring a woman here from San Francisco for purposes of prostitution, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday for keeping a bawdy house. The unblushing effrontery of this contemptible hound Pichot in bringing such an infamous suit into court so disgusted the jury that immediately after giving judgment against him they at once went before the grand jury and gave information which has led to the indictment of the scoundrel. Prosecuting Attorney Caton will probably teach Mr. Maquereau Pichot that he had better keep the accounts of his bagnio out of the courts.

OUTSIDERS COMING IN FOR PRIZES.—Portland athletes begin to realize that they must do some hard work if they are to secure any of the prizes offered by the Caledonian society on the Fourth of July. The presence of G. W. Gorgan, champion runner and jumper of the coast, who arrived by the steamer Oregon, and the fact that E. McIntyre, C. Scott, F. Ross, and D. J. McMillan, all noted athletes, will arrive from California overland by to-day's train, causes some stir among our boys. Last year McMillan came up and carried off several prizes. With four other noted athletes competing from the outside the games promise to be closely contested, but our own boys say they propose to secure a full share of the day's winnings.

THE ASCENSION TO-MORROW.—The balloon ascension to-morrow will be an interesting feature of the celebration. Prof. H. J. Dennison, who will make the ascent, is a pupil of the celebrated aeronaut, John Wise, and has been ballooning for twenty years, in which time he has made about 400 trips "up in a balloon." The balloon to be used on this occasion is 80 feet in height and nearly 300 feet in diameter. It will ascend from the park block, corner of Fourth and Pine streets, and it is to be about a mile and a half just where it will come down. The committee has not yet decided. Professor Dennison and his assistant, D. Arms, will visit the state fair and various county fairs with their balloon.

BIG YIELD.—About four weeks ago a shipment was made of 10,000 pounds of silver bearing ore from the Old Dominion mine, a few miles east of Fort Colville. It went to the Selby reduction works in San Francisco. Returns were received this week, and they far exceed the most sanguine expectation, the shipment having realized a trifle over $15,000, or $350 per ton. There is hardly a question that this result will stimulate to a great degree the ent re mining industry of the Colville valley and northern Washington generally, and it will not be surprising if some one got up enough enterprise to establish a smelter in the district before winter.

INDICTED FOR KEEPING A HOG RANCH.—Yesterday the grand jury returned an indictment against Ah Sing. It is not written on the customary blank, but covers two and a half pages of legal cap, setting forth in detail the nature of the offense, which seems to have no specific name. The charge reads that Mr. Sing is guilty of "the crime of committing an act which grossly injures the person and property of another and which grossly disturbs the public health and openly outrages public decency, on August 1, 1884, and continuously ever since."

TO SEATTLE.—The Portland baseball club leave this afternoon for Seattle, where they will play the "Reds" of that city on Saturday and Monday next. The nine is as follows: Timmons, catcher; Glendenning, pitcher; Bechtel short stop; Brandt, first base; Coulter, second; Edwards, third; Brown, Drennan and Connoly in the field, with Ed Lyons as substitute. This is a much stronger team than the Portlands played last year, and the Puget sound champions may consider themselves crack players if they score more runs in nine innings than do their visitors.

REASON RETURNED.—S. A. Gee, the Idaho miner who attempted suicide by jumping into the river from the Willamette Chief, Wednesday afternoon, was probably insane for the time being only. He is still at the city jail, where he will be kept for a day longer. Yesterday he was perfectly rational, but could not remember an incident of the preceding day. He says he took several drinks with a friend, and it is more than likely he was drugged. Gee seems to be a decent, hard going sort of a man, and he cannot account for his strange conduct.

INDICTMENTS.—The grand jury returned indictments yesterday as follows: Ah Lee, for robbing Elizabeth Johnson's chicken house June 2; Emanuel Pichot, for keeping a house of prostitution; Frank Martin, for assaulting Thomas Jennings with a rock; William S. Bruce, for assaulting his wife, Lizzie Bruce, with a knife June 13. "Not a true bill" was found in the case of N. Wise, charged with larceny by bailee and of A. P. Butler, charged with seduction.

YAKIMA PEACHES.—Some friends in North Yakima have sent THE OREGONIAN, through Mr. Thomas H. Cavanaugh, a basket of Early Alexander (clingstone) peaches, raised upon the farm of Prof. A. M. Miller, on the Natchess river. They are large and juicy, of most delicate bouquet, and firm enough to stand shipment well. Some of them are 9½ inches in circumference. Their color is light green, with a rather deep blush on one cheek. In size, beauty and flavor they are ideally perfect peaches.

EVERYTHING IN FINE SHAPE.—Hon. D. P. Thompson returned yesterday from a trip to the Seaside house, Clatsop. He reports everything in first-class order and the weather delightful. Clams and crabs are plentiful on the beach, and the Neakahnie is swarming with trout, of which Ogle is capturing thirty to forty pounds per day. The dairy is at its best and the land is flowing with milk, but there is no great overplus of honey.

GIRL KILLED BY A BASEBALL.—The second fatal accident from baseball in the Willamette valley occurred last week. May Sanders, a little girl 12 or 13 years old, whose parents live near Harrisburg, died last Thursday from the effect of being struck with a ball some time ago. She was attending school, and while watching a game of ball, was struck in the abdomen by the ball. Inflammation set in, resulting in her death as above stated.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.—Mr. John Carney, the well-known steamboat clerk of earlier days, and of late in the railroad service at Seattle and in this city, has been ill for three weeks. His trouble is enlargement of the heart, with a complication of other diseases, and his condition yesterday was regarded as almost hopeless. About six weeks ago he was appointed agent for the Northern Pacific in Portland.

TO SELECT JUDGES.—A meeting of the captains of the yachts to take part in the sailing regatta on the Fourth is called for to-day at noon at the Wankegar boat house. The object of the meeting is to select judges. Considerable interest is manifested in this race both by the public and the boat men. A close contest may be looked for.

SPECIAL TRAIN FROM THE RACES.—Persons attending the races at Hillsboro to-day and to-morrow can return to Portland on a special train leaving Hillsboro about [illegible] P. M. On the Fourth excursion tickets will be sold from Portland to Hillsboro and return at one fare for the round trip.

DECISIONS TO BE ANNOUNCED.—Judge Stearns will announce decisions in the state circuit court this morning in the following cases: Kuhl vs. Kissling et al; Freeman vs. Williams and Delashmutt; Hoffman vs. Montgomery et al; Hoff vs. Hoff; Kelly vs. Culver.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning, in the case of Goldsmith vs. Gilliland and others, on the sufficiency of the plea to the bill.

THE PEOPLE'S LIFE INSURANCE.

The Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ahead.

As was noticed in issues of Saturday and Monday last, the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association issued in 1884 more than four millions more life insurance than was issued by the two largest old line companies combined, and that in New York state alone it issued $36,185,000, while its twelve old line rivals obtained in New York state $34,164,357, and in 1885 up to June 20 it has issued $32,360,000, in spite of adverse press, influence, [illegible] and legislation exercised in interests of old line companies.

The public verdict is being rendered as to why so many intelligent people, mostly business men of the oldest and greatest states, where all kinds of life insurance experiments have been made, show such a preference for this system of life insurance.

Let us call in our witnesses and examine them and cross examine them and gather up every grain of evidence possible as to why the Mutual Reserve Fund Life, in the face of persecution, has, in 1885 up to June 20, issued $32,360,000 of life insurance.

Here is the probable evidence: The people are rapidly learning (the opinions of partisan opponents notwithstanding) that this insurance is as scientific, as legitimate and as pure as any other; that it costs less, and all things considered is safer than any other; that compound interest is a more powerful, and when both principal and interest is far as possible is kept in the hands of its owner, that this is done by paying for what you get and getting what you pay for without everlasting [illegible] taking chances of getting part of your overpayments back under the pet names of "dividends"; that the actual skill and science boasted of and contended for under the old system consists mainly in concealing the truth in regard to these matters, and in rendering plausible what reason and experience demonstrates to be error.

Facts are in demand nowadays. The people want them and children cry for them; but in order that they may be valuable the people know that they must hunt for them and find them and probe them and not take anyone's word to anything unless it has behind it a fact.

Facts exist great enough in multitude, and in power when they rise in all their majesty from their concealment, to illuminate the dark, deep, unfathomable mysteries and [illegible] almost supernatural subject of life insurance, nor can they much longer [illegible] but are long [illegible] bound [illegible] from their prison cells, and as great master teachers instruct, enlighten and emancipate from the [illegible] of error the people in past or [illegible] who desire life insurance, plain, simple and unalloyed, thoroughly divorced from banking, speculation and perpetual investment, and wedded to no unnecessary thought or thing foreign to life insurance pure as refined gold. The public are invited to behold, examine, scrutinize, analyze, philosophize and put to all conceivable trials and tests, and decide for themselves what the merits of this system and in it, who believes in it, and patronizes it and why.

When charges of fallacies and imputations of weakness are so constantly urged by the rival system, whose partisan representatives are very careful to make no discrimination between the giant institutions and the puny infants which never breathed in full the breath of life.

We must not forget that the Natural Premium system makes a complete separation of funds paid for death losses, expenses and funds paid for management expenses, that the death loss expense is what is necessary to meet current death costs, and no more, the management expense is defined as so much on $1000 of insurance, without reference to death cost, that death cost is adjusted in conformity with age, so that each member pays [illegible] in proportion as his is a risk to the institution; that the management expense is payable in advance each year and does [illegible] expense is paid by bi-monthly premiums. That the policies are valued by all insurance [illegible] fortune, that $100,000 is deposited and everything is done in this system that the old system ever does to guarantee prompt payment of every claim in full. The public are also to learn and know that there is an inherent distinction to be made between monopoly price and a price that is established by laws of supply and demand.

It must also be understood that the Natural Premium system champions and defends under its leaders and allies whom the finding business men [illegible] of this country [illegible] organization whose practices and management are not strictly speculative.

It only pretends and intends to defend the right wherever it finds it, and will stand by and speak a good word for an old line company when it deserves it, too. The chasm between the new and the old is one of the latter's own making, and the new has nothing to do with the organization of any corporation or its management.

It fights systems, fights principles, it fights practices, and as a great system of the people by the people for the people, it shall continue to do so in behalf of the people and their highest interests. Persons desiring life insurance at lowest possible cost consistent with greatest safety and security, if not called on by an agent, please address Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, Portland, Oregon.

A NEW COMER'S VIEWS.

PORTLAND, July 1.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your correspondent, fresh from the vast corn and wheat fields of the Mississippi valley, has only breathed the balmy air of the Pacific slope for six weeks. During this short period how much one can see and hear in this wonderland! We have seen the Sound country with one of the finest harbors in the world, with its vast resources of lumber, iron and coal. In the cities of Tacoma and Seattle "the Columbia river bar" is on every man's tongue, and is considered the great barrier to the future of Portland, the cancer which will eventually eat its way to the vitals of the Queen city, stopping the life blood of trade and commerce, and [illegible] her to be buried beside the blue waters of the Willamette. How much truth about all of this [illegible] "[illegible]"? Nothing more now than it was from twenty to forty years ago when the import and export trade [illegible] the mouth of the [illegible] first connected, which has built up Portland, the great and lasting entrepot, distributing city and metropolis of the "New Northwest." The capitalists of Portland are daily [illegible] because they have not embarked in manufacturing enterprises, and lined the shores of the Willamette and the hill sides with shops, mills and factories. To the thinking man a visit to Brownsville, Oregon City and La Camas, on the Washington side of the Columbia, will set this matter at rest.

Because Minneapolis has a score of flouring mills capable of turning out 25,000 or 30,000 barrels of flour daily, it is no reason why Portland should build such mills. Those mills are there because the power of St. Anthony falls are there. Portland's power is not in the midst of the city, but fifteen, twenty and thirty miles away, and yet on the deep waters of the Columbia and Willamette, where manufactured articles can be delivered as cheaply to her docks as they could be drayed if manufactured within her corporate limits. Then, see the advantage of these things at once. Real estate in Portland is too high and valuable for the use of mills and factories, but at some of the suburban manufacturing towns, especially at La Camas, on the opposite side of the Columbia, mill sites are being donated to the worthy and enterprising manufacturer, while the power already utilized [illegible] is ready to turn on to the new wheels at one fourth the expense it would be to feed a steam engine after it had been put in position by the outlay of a great deal of capital. Heretofore the population of this northwest coast has been too limited to justify any extensive manufacturing, but now with its greater number of inhabitants and rapidly increasing population, and two or three competing lines of railroad soon to be completed into Portland, by which a large portion of that vast agricultural grazing and mining country between the Rocky mountains and Mississippi river can be supplied from this way, it would be well for the capitalists of Portland as well as the "builders" of Yankee notions to look after the manufacturing interests while the golden opportunity is within their reach.

WATER VERSUS DRAINAGE.

PORTLAND, July 2.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A local item in your paper a few days ago touched lightly on a point that ought, for the public good, to be amplified. It was, in effect, that the city of Portland was just now more in need of sewers than more water. It is needless for me to say anything concerning the sanitary condition of Portland. There is scarcely a man, woman or child who is not more or less posted as to its defects. The point that needs accentuation is that the water burden of to-day on this people is a small matter compared to the burden of zymotic disease they are carrying as a result of a very bad sanitary condition. If any more taxes are to be imposed they ought to go toward lightening the heavier burden. The excessive amount now paid for water is insignificant to the tax that is annually paid for sickness which is due primarily to filth. It is quite true that these filth-diseases have not yet killed quite so fast as some other diseases, yet the door is wide open for an epidemic that will turn the scales. And what shall be said of the victims who are never quite stricken down, who find their energy sapped and their rightful capacity impaired in such an insidious way that the cause is never suspected? I have heard a good deal said here about a lack of business enterprise and energy. Perhaps we may look here for the cause of it.

Now there is no guessing or assumption in the statement that a thorough system of drainage in Portland will substantially put an end to typhoid fever and a train of those filth diseases and ills which travel under the general name of malaria. Furthermore, it will be neither difficult nor expensive to thoroughly drain the city. A portion of the sewage will have to be pumped over a small hight, but pumping is about the cheapest mechanical work we have, and the cost of it in this case, when distributed over the whole population, will scarcely be felt.

It is hardly necessary to add that no tinkering will help this matter. There must be an intelligently devised system. It seems to me that a government is for the protection of its people, and that it is the duty of a city government to protect its people from the disease and destruction caused by accumulated filth.

SOMETHING EVERYBODY SHOULD SEE.

One of the most common, yet most indispensable things in every day use, is paper. Its method of manufacture—how from rags or different kinds of wood, or straw, this common yet all-important article comes into being white as a snowflake—is one of the most interesting and most practical departments of study. A book describing such process must be very interesting to one who would be posted in the application of science to human good. How much more interesting the complete illustration of the whole matter, by the placing of the whole modus operandi right before one's eyes. Within a few hours' ride from our city, right on the banks of the Columbia, is one of the largest paper mills on the coast, where even a child can take in the whole situation in a few moments' observation. The wonder is, with such a privilege afforded, our schools do not take up this matter, and give their scholars a chance to combine practical information with pleasure in a visit to this establishment. All our sabbath schools even would do a good thing for themselves if they would arrange to visit this mammoth establishment at La Camas. So thinks one who has recently spent a day at the place. One of our city schools—the Hall street Methodist—on their excursion on the 10th, to La Camas, have arranged to give the children and their friends a thorough inspection of the work.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes to express his thanks for the benefit which his wife has derived from the use of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "It is with pleasure," he says, "that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my wife, who has been troubled with ulceration and a tumor weighing two and one-half pounds, so the doctor said. She had been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound; as soon as she commenced to take it she commenced getting better and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as ever she could."

A REMEDY FOR LUNG DISEASES.

Dr. Robert Newton, late President of the Eclectic College of the City of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures consumption, and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

BROKE HIS ARM.

W. McKinney, son of W. J. McKinney, the fish dealer, while at Silverton nearly three weeks ago, was kicked in the right wrist by a fractious colt. The wound caused thereby became very painful, but he sought no advice and did not discover until consulting a physician upon his arrival home yesterday that the bone was fractured. His neglect to get proper attention will necessarily delay recovery.

WILL JOIN THE CELEBRATION.

At a meeting of Sumner post, No. 12, G. A. R., held last evening it was decided to participate in the parade in Portland on the Fourth. A cordial invitation is extended to all honorably-discharged soldiers to join them, and all intending participants are requested to report for duty not later than 10 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth.

DEATH OF MRS. ROORK.

The wife of Pleasant Roork, of Powell's valley, who was severely injured by a runaway accident several days ago, was relieved of her sufferings by death about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. By the concussion received her whole system became paralyzed, and she never rallied. The funeral will take place this afternoon from the family residence in Powell's valley, and the remains interred at the cemetery at that place.

NOTES.

The grand jury inspected the city jail yesterday.

Joseph Knott leaves for British Columbia this morning, on a pleasure trip.

A hose team of the Fourth Ward company are in constant practice, and they mean to go in to win at the August tournament.

Pioneers had another drill last evening, and reduced their previous records. The cart, however, is evidently too heavy for contest purposes.

Din Hock, the Chinaman accused of breaking into the house of a fellow-heathen named Ling Wing, was arraigned before the recorder yesterday and was allowed his liberty upon payment of costs and making reparation to the complainant for the injury done.

Much complaint is made by engineers and brakemen of boys infesting the cars side-tracked near the lower depot, and of the deviltry committed by them. Such tricks as tightening the brakes and withdrawing the coupling pins are cause of continual annoyance and danger, and conductors have been appealed to to provide a remedy.

The ball of the pistol used in the accidental shooting of young Bertie Brunell, some time since, which hitherto could not be found and it was thought he had swallowed it, was discovered imbedded in his jaw in a battered condition. The wound caused by it had become to be painful, and the complaints of the boy led to the discovery by the attending physician.

A number of small boys, some not over 6 years of age, are in the habit of navigating the slough in Sullivan's gulch on rafts, the frail nature of which are very suggestive to reporters and undertakers, and their expectations came near being realized the other day when one of these crafts capsized and precipitated two youngsters into the water. The water in some parts of the slough is very deep and it would seem that parents who value the lives of their sons would prevent their indulging such pranks.

Perry Magness, for nearly four years the affable and accommodating assistant postmaster at East Portland, was yesterday compelled to leave that position through causes for which he was not responsible and over which he had no control. A reduction of $200 in the salary of the postmistress impelled the dispensing with his services, much as they are desired. This increases the reduction to $400 since last fall, when a similar reduction was made. It was thought then the office would grow from a third to a second grade, but the business has decreased rather than increased, and the result is as stated.

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. [illegible]

COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, July 2.

Overland receipts include 600 cs coal oil, 440 hf 160 qr corn meal, 65 bbls matches, 4 cs cheese, 3 bbls starch, 170 pkgs tobacco, 75 bxs bacon, 50 bxs tin.

In the week produce moved quite freely, although prices in some instances weakened and the shipping markets grew duller. The weather has continued bright with cool nights, rain falling at a few eastern section points. Crops are forward and free from damaging conditions. Wheat can get along without further rain and without unfavorable harvest weather the outturn must come up to conservative expectations.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 395 ctls wheat, 390 bbls flour, 2400 ctls oats, 182 ctls barley, 120 ctls millstuff, 21 sks potatoes, 30,784 lbs wool, 70 lbs hides, 120 cs eggs, 23 bxs fruit, 11 pkgs butter. Also 2483 ctls wheat, 150 bbls flour, 94,000 lbs wool, 1465 lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The last available spot vessel was taken up early in the week for direct loading at 43s, an advance of 2s 6d over last previous transaction. The Zamora and Remonstrant sailed with wheat and salmon. Our en route list shows no marked increase and the prospect for an early supply of tonnage does not brighten. There is no reported business in futures, but higher rates are probable. At San Francisco but one charter has been written in over two weeks and that one for berth business private.

REGISTERED TONNAGE STATEMENT.

In port—	Chartered for grain, etc.	3,837
	Finishing with salmon	1,119
	In China trade	865	5,821
On way—	Due June, July	2,687
	Due later on	5,207	7,894

WHEAT—Receipts only fair, and they still largely represent old purchases or interior buying. Warehouse stocks here have dwindled by reason of both foreign and domestic loading until there is little left. The Idaho is loading 800 tons of grain, largely wheat, for San Francisco. Values have ruled without change, although interior mills have bought valley at $1 30, against the city quotation of $1 30. Buyers show no disposition to take hold except when a weak holder is met. Walla Walla is usually quoted at $1 20, but some in desirable position brought more. English markets have ruled easy but without notable change, and the same may be said of New York and Chicago.

FLOUR—The local trade has ruled quiet, a steady call at unchanged prices giving no variety to the market. To San Francisco shipments were nothing in the week, while none was cleared foreign. The Huntingtonshire will soon clear with part cargo and the Archer follows with complete cargo. Several mills are putting in new machinery, to be ready for the new crop of wheat. Standards are quoted $4 25, less usual trade discount, and outside brands $3 50@3 75.

MILLSTUFFS—Receipts free, because of large shipments to San Francisco. The bran market there has weakened of late. Here the request is only of a local character, except some shipper secures a parcel at a price admitting of shipment. Mills are not producing heavily, but have liberal supplies. We quote jobbing values: Bran, $12@13; chop, $16 50@18; shorts, $15@17; middlings, $18@20.

BARLEY—Feed quoted $20@21; best brewing, $20. The local request continues light, and is supplied at quotations. Receipts continue to be quite free and mostly for shipment.

OATS—In the week the market has lost ground and trade shows quite a falling off. This is due mostly to a weaker shipping market which brings about larger offerings to the local trade. There is now no demand for shipment, although considerable is going forward. Dealers here have found large stocks to choose from and more offering from the interior. The decline is not substantial enough to permit buying for shipment, but as the market shows a lower tendency more may soon be done. The best feed have sold at 35c, and at the close this can only be had in a small way, 34c being the usual bid. As a quotation 34@35c may be given for the best and 30@32c for common, the poorer grades neglected. While there is no definite information, the California crop is believed to be light. If so there will be a steady outlet for Oregon at a fair price.

POTATOES—Market almost wholly supplied by new local, for which dealers pay 30c per bushel. California sell at 1c.

ONIONS—Under higher costs the selling price here advanced to 3½c yesterday.

TROPICAL FRUITS—Fair demand, arrivals selling up close. Tahiti oranges $3, lemons $6, limes $1 25, bananas $2 75, cocoanuts 7c.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—In fruits there is a good local trade done and some plums are being shipped. Blackberries have come in freely, the first Lawton bringing 10c, wild bringing 7@8c. Plums bring 1½@2c as to kind. Cherries irregular at 3@6c for best sorts. A few Oregon apples and stone fruits are at hand, but the bulk of dealing is in California. Last consignments sold at: Apples $1, peaches $1@1 25, apricots $1, bananas 75c. Oregon peaches promise a fine quality.

VEGETABLES, ETC.—California and Oregon selling at very even prices, selling values quoted: Beans 1c, peas 5c, cabbage 1½c, cauliflower $1 25, corn 27c, cucumbers about 5c.

BUTTER—Dealers well supplied and market easy. Quotations are: Best dairy 20@22½c, common 15@18c, poor 8@12c.

POULTRY—Chickens in large stock and slow sale; late receipts moving slowly. Young have not done so well, and consignors are advised against sending those of tender age. Quote old at $7@8, young $1 50@2 50. Other poultry in small trading and prices are without change.

EGGS—Receipts have not been heavy, but have exceeded the request almost daily, and values have to be shaded in order to clear stocks, or at least keep them down. To-day 16c is quoted.

HAY—The outlook for a good crop is excellent. Offerings of choice are not large, but quite meet the demand. Quote $8@10; inferior, $6@7.

SALMON SHIPMENTS—Per str State of California: Cutting 850, West Coast, 500, Occident 25, Scandinavian 425, Thistle 102, Fisherman's 1, McGowan 1, Cook 1000. Total, 2644 cases.

Per Br bark Remonstrant: Hapgood 2000, Scandinavian 1500, Badollet 4415, Devlin 2000, Cook 1000, Occident 1500, I X L 4000, George W. Hume 7000, Fisherman's 2000, Aberdeen 2000, McGowan 1000, Thistle 500, Cutting 2?, Megler 2000, Anglo-American 2000, Williams 1000. Total, 36,77? cases.

Visible Supply and Crop Talk.

"The 'visible supply' seems to be the chief factor in the wheat market this year. It has always been a factor, but crop reports have generally taken the lead. This year, however, crop reports, no matter how startling, seem to have but little effect on prices, while a slight increase in the visible supply will fairly knock the bottom out of the market." This quotation is from a milling paper. From the recent fluctuations in the Chicago and New York markets, it would seem that a very large amount of attention was paid this factor in making future price options. A Chicago authority gives out weekly what is said to be the visible supply. Of late this has alternately shown increase and decrease. Some of the New York calculators are questioning this report severely. Of course each market largely acts upon its own information when figures are moving it.

Leaving the visible supply question without settlement to the satisfaction of any one, statisticians are putting out figures on the coming crop. Very low estimates are being put out at this time. Here are a few of them:

	Bushels.
Cincinnati Price Current	358,000,000
Tallmadge, of Milwaukee	362,000,000
The Government Report	370,000,000
The Millers' Association	350,000,000
Chamberlain, of Columbus	370,000,000

The government has since issued a circular stating that varying conditions may make a difference of ten million bushels either way. Prime's report is daily looked for. He is a bull and his crop reports are popular with the bull crowd in New York and Chicago. Henry T. Kneeland, a New York operator who is bullishly inclined, says Prime's report will probably be between the millers' and the government's, probably nearer the former. Kneeland says: "One year ago Prime was dead right on the winter wheat crop and he correct on the crop in 1881, when it was so l, and the Keene corner banked millions on report." The Keene crowd lost, Kneeland says, use the crop, under favoring conditions, came teen to eighteen days earlier than expected, not being able to take the stuff fast enough. amberlain, Kneeland thinks he may be right s estimate. Kneeland must have great faith short crop, as the following extract from an rview by the New York correspondent of the thwestern Miller goes to show:

"But England does not appear to be much disturbed by these low figures. Her markets do not respond, nor her importers."

"But English importers are getting nervous. Look here! Stocks in England and France are low; nothing like what they were last year. Then they were heavy. England and France together promise a shortage of 40,000,000 bushels of home grown wheat. Australia and New Zealand are reported to have but ½ of an average crop. India is not likely to have more than last year, and there is no likelihood of an increase in Russia or in Austro-Hungary. The United States must always carry over what may be termed a famine surplus. The bears talk of there being 125,000,000 or 150,000,000 bushels of wheat (and flour as wheat) to be carried over on July 1 next. They are wrong. You can figure it out yourself. In 1878 we ran short of wheat on the low crop of that year and carried over in 1879 only the famine surplus. In 1882 we ran short again on the short yield of the preceding year and carried over only a nominal supply. In the three years intervening we exported and consumed all the wheat grown here. In the past three years (to July 1, 1885) [illegible] we have exported and consumed, allowing for increase in population and a like gain in consumption only,) all but $1,000,000 bushels of wheat."

"You think the last crop is as short as you say it is, then there will not be above 70,000,000 bushels available for export."

"That's just the way it looks to me. I expect to see $1 50 for wheat at New York before July 1, 1886. It is not improbable that with speculative influences it may run up to $2 per bushel before that date—that we may import wheat and pay duty on it, too, he added with emphasis.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

WASHINGTON.

J. G. Dow, a man well known as a temperance lecturer on this coast, died very suddenly at Laurens, recently, where he was in charge of a saw mill. A farmer passed his cabin one morning, and saw him sitting at a table with a book in his hand. Repassing later, he was sitting in the same position. The farmer entered, and found Dow with a pencil in one hand and a book in the other, dead.

Tuesday afternoon a three-year old daughter of William Johnson, of Walla Walla, fell from a wagon and sustained injuries which may prove fatal. It appears that the child was riding in a wagon with three other children. In some unaccountable way she fell out between the fore and rear wheels, and before the wagon could be stopped, the hind wheels passed over her head, striking over the ear and fracturing the skull above the right eye.

"As is the bud bit with an envious worm," so is many a youth cut down by the gnawing worm consumption. Wanted—Strength and Leadership.

New York Herald.

At this distance the monotony of quarrelsomeness in England is becoming a little wearisome. What is wanted is not that suavity and politeness which subscribes itself "I have the honor to be," but that hardiness which has for policy the honor of Great Britain, and which will do and dare everything for the sake of that honor. Englishmen would follow a real leader to the end of the earth, cost what it might. But where is he to be found?

All persons afflicted with Dyspepsia, Diarrhœa, Colic, and all kinds of Indigestion will find immediate relief and sure cure by using Angostura Bitters. The only genuine is manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.
